We have an Announcement!

Houston, we have a presence.

International Oilfield Management Services (IOMS) is delighted to announce that we are expanding our presence into Houston, Texas, effective March 1, 2017.

IOMS's Houston expansion allows us to meet the increasing demand for solutions and services from our oil and gas clients in the United States, with particular attention to those in the Eagle Ford, Permian, Barnett, Bakken and Marcellus basins. We will be providing our full suite of services and software to help our customers acquire, manage and dispose of production and processing equipment.

Mike Palkowetz will be your main contact in the Houston area. Mike is an accomplished engineer and manager with domestic operations and international Engineering, Procurement, Construction Management (EPCM) experience. Mike spent 15 years employed in refining and petrochemical business units where he was involved in government relations, operations, R&D and technical service. He later joined a world class EPCM company and was involved with international, multi-billion dollar projects, as well as numerous smaller projects throughout Russia, the Middle East and the United States. His most recent assignment had been with a major energy company providing project management services in the upstream and downstream divisions, managing projects supporting shale gas and tight oil facilities, pipelines and downstream plants. His experience is supported by a thorough academic background which covers business, engineering, liberal arts, mathematics and science, culminating in three undergraduate degrees and a graduate engineering degree.

Mike can be reached at +1 (281) 433-2337 or mpalkowetz@iomsus.com.

The IOMS group of companies is the largest integrated asset acquisition, management and recovery solutions provider in the oil and gas industry, and can help with your oil and gas equipment needs. Through our various divisions we provide drilling materials (casing, wellheads, float equipment and production tubing) and services; production and process equipment acquisition and disposition services; inventory, management, valuation and redeployment software and services; and supply chain services. For over 28 years we have helped oil and gas companies with all aspects of their OCTG, production and process equipment – from locating, managing and redeploying existing equipment, to acquiring needed equipment and disposing of surplus equipment.

In trying economic times like the oil and gas industry is now experiencing, saving money is just as important as saving time to production. "That's where we come in," states Dale Rawson, President and CEO of International Oilfield Management Services group of companies. "Our decision to expand into Texas is based not only on opportunity, but on demand as well. Our customers are asking for this, and we listened and responded. Our Houston presence expands our business into one of the fastest growing oil and gas areas in the world and we could not be more excited," added Rawson.
